Parma High School, we place you
Far supreme and over all.
Students to you do decree
Honor and fidelity.
Our pride in you is great,
Your name must never, never fall.
Parma High, our promise is Loyalty, eternally.

Dear Doug,

To a real swell tennis player whom I have never played with out hope to some time. My other goal in life is to have you walk me to seven'th period class, when you aren't busy walking some one else. (like Marie)? Try to have fun this summer, though you'll be with out me to keep you happy.

Hope I'll see you next year in Home Room, Honey. May be we can sit together again.

Lot of Luck in the future.

Tina

Dear Doug,

To one of the nicest guys I have ever met. I hope you have a lot of luck in your senior year and I hope we can spend it together. Stay as nice as you are now and always keep your nice personality.

Lots of love,
Marie

In Memoriam—William B. Pilot

Summer excursions to Canada offered much-needed and well-deserved rests for one of Parma's most beloved educators. His most intense desire, however, lay in developing better education for Parma Senior High students. Throughout his twenty-three years of service to Parma schools, Mr. William B. Pilot strove to initiate new plans and ideas for better learning.

In his capacity as Director of Guidance, Mr. Pilot developed our guidance department and served as junior boys' counselor.

His vital interest in Parma High students resulted in our new honors classes.

But on November 20, 1958, a flag flown at half-mast signified the sudden, untimely death of our beloved assistant principal.

To honor him—and to thank him—Parma Senior High paused to hear Concert Choir's dedicatory anthem to his memory.

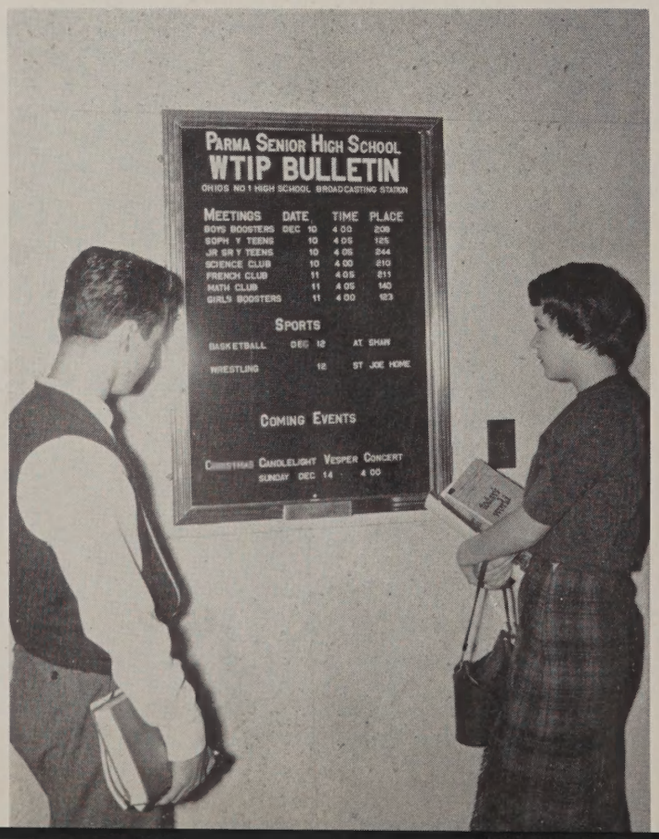
Mr. William S. Bassett, our principal, said: "His passing is a profound loss to the school and community. We shall miss him in the days that lie ahead."

. . "The Lord bless you and keep you" . . . .

Pride in the "Queen of High Schools" is reflected in the faces of these Parma students as they sing the Alma Mater.

Reflections of student accomplishments

Ron Marsoun and Carol Plumer check PSH's new bulletin board for the latest in club news and school activities.



"Oh, we're from Parma High School, and no one could be prouder!" shouted this year's Parma students. Like a cheerful bit of enthusiasm, the spirit at PSH captured every sophomore, junior, and senior in a contagious wave of pride. This spirit found a voice in the daily lives of PSH-ers, reverberant at pep rallies, blending at concerts, inventive at club meetings, and thoughtful in class. But most of all, this spirit was the regal voice of the "Queen of High Schools."

Parma verified her claim to royalty in numerous ways this year. The spirit of interscholastic competition spurred her on to long-awaited athletic triumphs, aided by record-making student support. Distinctive honor gained through scholastic achievement contributed another portion to the "Queen's" treasury of student accomplishments. To unite her three thousand subjects, the "Queen" also planned school parties, offered her facilities for meetings, class dances, and canteens, and presented plays, shows, and concerts in the auditorium.

Sue Lorenzen enthusiastically points out the class standings in the hospital tax stamp drive as John Holden looks on.

and educational facilities offered by PSH

Hums of activity were commonplace sounds at PSH hours after the daily close of classes. The "Queen's" ample facilities were turned over to adults as they studied courses at night. Many groups presented programs in her spacious auditorium or Little Theater and congregated in her huge cafeteria for special dinners. On Saturdays PSH opened her doors to departmental activities such as the annual Science Fair, a speech tournament, or special gym classes in selected sports.

Students also added extra community projects to their already busy schedules. Sharing their Yuletide spirits with others less fortunate, the "Queen's" subjects filled gaily decorated Christmas baskets with all kinds of nonperishable foods for many of Parma's needy families. At special gym centers, students instructed younger children in basic sports and tumbling skills. And by financing a ward in the new Parma Community General Hospital, the "Queen of High Schools" helped build a proud addition to our city.

Seniors sought keys to knowledge and future success in their last year at Parma High. Carefree times with friends in clubs, music, drama, and sports became memories after Commencement in June.

As we reminisce over our years at PSH, we find three years filled with pleasant and unforgettable experiences. Forget Parma High? Never, we resolve as the vivid memory of our high school days unfolds before our eyes.

Sophomore year saw us dubbed underclassmen; the same year also witnessed the first reunion of the Class of '59, since half of us had spent our freshman year at Schaaf and the rest of us at PSH. We developed a school spirit that grew with our number and ascended to the peak scholastically as well as socially. Mr. Robert Brugge furnished counsel and aid as our class adviser.

Familiar incidents highlighted our second year at PSH—juniors mustered their talents for the presentation of the class play, "The Importance of Being Earnest"; led by class president Dennis Reese, the class planned a spectacular Junior-Senior Prom, "Moonlight in May"; and the election of Walter Zaremba as our SCM closed our gay, carefree years as underclassmen.

Senior year for the Class of '59 bubbled with excitement. Among the numerous events of the year were such highlights as the suspenseful Senior Class play, "The Night of January 16th"; a breathtaking senior dance, "Underwater Fantasy"; an undefeated football season topped by the LEL crown; senior prom, Baccalaureate, and Commencement—where the bubble finally burst.

To make our senior year a successful one, we chose good leaders to aid us on our way—Richard Klym, president; Jim Campi, vice-president; Georgia Springer, secretary; and Jay Gradisher, treasurer. We did our best to live up to our name, "Parma, the Queen of High Schools," and on leaving, entrusted it to the underclassmen to keep Parma Senior High "far supreme and over all."

Commencement with all its solemnity, memories, and tears made us face the realization that we had completed one phase of our life, and ahead of us was the world with its trials, challenges and realities—waiting for us to explore.

"Never a dull moment"—a fitting motto for a lively Junior Class. Knights in sport coats escorted fair maidens to school functions. Scholarship tests balanced the year with enjoyable social events.

We were very proud of our higher class standing; we joyously compared our new class rings; we learned the techniques of writing research papers and methods for giving first aid; we analyzed "Our Town"; many of us realized our ambitions as we were inducted into National Honor Society; those of us with a flair for drama took bows for our class musical, "Finian's Rainbow." In short, we were the juniors of PSH!

We juniors led busy lives this year. We participated in just about all activities; sports, music, dramatics, and art were a few of our favorite fields. Under the leadership of our class advisers, Mr. James Justice and Mr. Edward Krivda, and our officers, President Jim Zavocky, Vice-president Bob Bass, Secretary Veronica Dempsey, and Treasurer Marilyn Sponseller, we enjoyed a wonderful year. Two of its highlights were "Caribbean Holiday" in March and the Junior Prom.

We were the juniors—and we liked it. And next year, we'll like being the seniors even more!

It wasn't long before the sophs were a "part of the crowd" at PSH. They soon proved themselves a hardworking, talented class in the sophomore assembly and by winning the Christmas display contest.

In September, 1275 baffled sophomores wandered through the maze of halls in bewilderment. At that time little did we realize that with some effort and genuine school spirit, we would soon be an active part of Parma Senior High.

Heavy schedules kept us "on the go", for some of us tackled language courses and were enrolled in the new honors classes. With the assistance of Mr. Robert Bright, our faculty adviser, we tried to support our school and community. Led by our officers, Lois Sabo, president; Judy Zaremba, vice-president; Darlene Miller, secretary; and Carol Bilby, treasurer; we contributed to the success of the tax stamp drive and won the Christmas display contest. In March we presented the sophomore assembly, "Showboat", and our class dance in May was a festive finish to our year.

We, the class of '61, did our best to deserve the honor of belonging to the "Queen of all High Schools", and we look forward to our future years at Parma Senior High School.

How do we get there from here? Sophomores Dennis Sherman and Gerry Luthy wonder as they study PSH floor plan.

Cooperation on the part of the faculty, under the leadership of Mr. Bassett, helped carry out new plans in the curriculum. Parma has pride in its educators—the pupils' direct channels to knowledge.

As administrator of Ohio's largest high school, our principal, Mr. William S. Bassett, faces a demanding job. However, he maintains close relations with the student body. He meets with student representatives and often addresses the entire student body via the Morning Show.

Mr. Bassett graduated from South High, Cleveland, Ohio. He earned his AB at Baldwin-Wallace and holds an MA from Western Reserve. He came to Parma in 1932 as athletic coach and history teacher at Parma High, and became its principal in 1938. Mr. Bassett helped plan Parma Senior High and assumed his present position as principal when it opened in September, 1953.

Mr. Bassett is a member of several professional organizations, including the National Association of Secondary High School Principals. He also belongs to Parma Lions' and the Boosters.

In recognition of his 27 years of service in the Parma Schools, the 1959 Spectrum staff dedicates this book to Mr. William S. Bassett.

Briggs and Board plan library addition

Mr. Paul W. Briggs, a well-known educator, is serving his second year as the Superintendent of Parma Public Schools. His education includes a BA from Western Michigan University and an MA from Michigan State University.

Mr. Briggs and the Board of Education have improved the quality of our education. Despite the crowded conditions at PSH, the Board kept us on a full-day schedule. A building program includes new junior and senior high schools.

The Board also approved plans for a new wing to PSH. A modern library will be located on the ground floor, will seat 200 students, and will contain 13,000 volumes. These facilities will be available for use during vacation periods. Two classrooms and a faculty workroom will provide a partial solution to PSH's population problem. A corridor linking the cafeteria and shop wings will eliminate our traffic jams.

Through the efforts of the Board, Parma Senior High maintains her title—"Queen of High Schools."

Mr. Paul Briggs, superintendent of Parma schools, adds his signature to a decision of the Board of Education.

BOARD OF EDUCATION—Seated—Mrs. Josephine L. Horton, Secretary to the Superintendent of Schools and the Board of Education; Mr. Paul W. Briggs, Superintendent of Schools; Mr. Arch S. Brown, Administrative Assistant—Teacher Personnel; Mr. J. H. Wanek, Clerk-Treasurer; Mr. William M. Councell, Director of Business Affairs. Standing—Mr. James F. Pojman; Mr. Grant A. Morgenstern, President; Mr. Charles C. Chaffin, Vice-President; Mr. Thomas E. Hudgeons, Jr.; Mr. Norman W. Shibley.

Administrators lead us to better education

Mr. Chester W. Gibson, BS, MA
Assistant Principal

Miss Thelma M. Deacon, AB, AM
Dean of Girls

Promoted to the position of assistant principal this year, Mr. Gibson has duties that include working out the master schedule, counseling A-K senior boys, and advising the Senior Class.

Miss Deacon is dean of girls and also counsels A-K junior girls. She works with homeroom teachers to arrange all PSH-er's schedules.

Mr. Cordisco, administrative assistant, is in charge of the attendance of our 3,200 PSH-ers. A Key-sort machine expedites the big job.

Mr. Lesniak, director of guidance, takes care of testing and scholarships.

Counselors advise us about future plans

Mrs. Sykes, guidance counselor, helps Kathy Lynch and Bob Cody hunt for college information in the counselors' files.

Guidance classes and personal conferences gave the PSH student body a chance to get acquainted with its counselors. These busy people included among their duties giving and interpreting tests and setting up study courses that would be best for each student. They also helped PSH-ers decide on vocations or choose colleges. Headquarters for information on careers and colleges was a back section of the library where a counselor was on duty each period this year.

Helpful, friendly—these words describe PSH's nine indispensable counselors.

Enriched honors classes are new addition

Jane Morgan looks up a word that might help Pat Hecker and Tom Kern as they write themes for honors English.

A senior English class takes notes as Ken Michnay gives a helpful report on Elizabethan customs and daily life.

Honors classes for "A" and "B" English students are one new feature of PSH's English department. Fortunate sophomores and juniors in these classes are offered an enriched course including creative writing and field trips to attend plays.

All sophomores study about old, miserly Silas Marner and regal Julius Caesar with great interest. Besides this literature, pupils concentrate on spelling and grammar rules. Oral book reports bolster self-confidence as pupils learn to prepare and deliver speeches before groups.

Juniors invade libraries armed with note cards as they record the necessary information for research papers. The experience proves invaluable, as it teaches students to use the many resources of our library. Pupils take pride in their country as they make an intensive study of American authors and our rich literary heritage.

Seniors become absorbed in great English literature as they follow its course from the Anglo-Saxon minstrels to contemporary literary greats. Seniors also quickly review grammar rules. College term papers will be no mystery to graduates of PSH, because these are a high point of the extensive senior English curriculum.

Lines from Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men" are familiar material to public speaking students. Practice eliminates wobbly knees and distracting mannerisms as students master techniques of debate, extemp, original oratory, and dramatic and humorous declamation. Drama students give interpretations and learn to use gestures of emphasis. Students not only learn to act, but also acquire confidence and poise "on stage."

Journalism I students often dream of having a big "scoop" as they work diligently to master the methods of gathering and reporting the news. Their chance may come when they elect Journalism II, since these classes produce our bi-weekly school newspaper, the Parma Hi Spot. Activities such as these involve practical application of skills learned in English classes.

"Let me out, warden!" pleads Jim Gundlach as he practices dramatic interpretation before dramatics students.

Voting machines baffled many voters last fall but will present no problem to the future voters in PSH's U.S. government classes. They visited the polls located in school during the November election. Government classes prepare all seniors for their duties as American citizens.

Greenback, Ostend Manifesto, Monroe Doctrine —these terms become more than just words to juniors as they study U.S. history. This required, full-year subject traces the course of our country from its humble beginnings in Europe to its vital position in today's world.

Informal roundtable discussions are a familiar but challenging routine to PSH-ers enrolled in honors world history. These students and those in regular classes find themselves engrossed in the fascinating history of culture and civilization.

Sociology, economics, and current problems are electives that satisfy the needs of pupils specializing in the field of social science.

Life at PSH becomes less of a mystery to sophomores as school policy and curriculum are explained in guidance classes. Senior guidance pupils discuss such adult problems as marriage.

Roundtable discussions in honors world history contribute to better learning by more individual participation.

PSH-ers demonstrate interest and ability

Bev Sekely, Jan Viscomi, John Lindak, and Mel Greaves weigh the chemicals for their experiments in chemistry class.

PSH will probably contribute a large number of scientists to the challenging Space Age, judging from the great interest shown by our students. In the 1959 Science Fair, over 130 pupils entered projects. The faculty sponsors, Miss Slater and Mr. Zeitler, organized the fair. The best projects in biology, chemistry, and physics earned plaques. First, second, and third place winners in each of the three fields received medals.

Biology was a very popular field at the fair, probably because of the encouragement and stimulation given the top students in the new honors classes. Honors students cover the same course as regular students, but investigate each subject more thoroughly. Every biology student carries away with him memories of algae, phyla, and the initially repulsive frog that turned out to be a thing of great interest and wonder.

In physics class future rocket engineers found out that E=IR, sound travels in waves, and that levers come in three classes. Unrelated as these facts may seem to be to the complex Atlas ICBM, they are the kinds of fundamentals that are basic to any profession in the field of physics.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT—Mr. William Schreiner, BS, MA, chairman; Mr. Lewis F. Cowgill, BS; Miss L. Elizabeth Hawkins, BS, MA; Mr. Natale B. Maniaci, AB; Mr. Robert E. Parilla, BS in Ed; Miss Annajean Slater, B Ed., M Ed.

"Who's more scared, you or the snake?" Dave Seibert inquires. Sue Acker, who's not quite sure, doesn't reply.

A drop of this, a gram of that, the smell of smoke, and poof! another experiment may be recorded in the lab manuals of our chemistry students. Of course, chemistry is not all a magic show. Students learn such complicated items as covalent bonding, pH, and industrial processes.

Aeronautics classes study intensively fundamentals of navigation and principles of flight that keep planes aloft. Future pilots also get a chance to study a jet engine donated by NASA.

Senior science is elected by students who need only a basic knowledge of scientific principles.

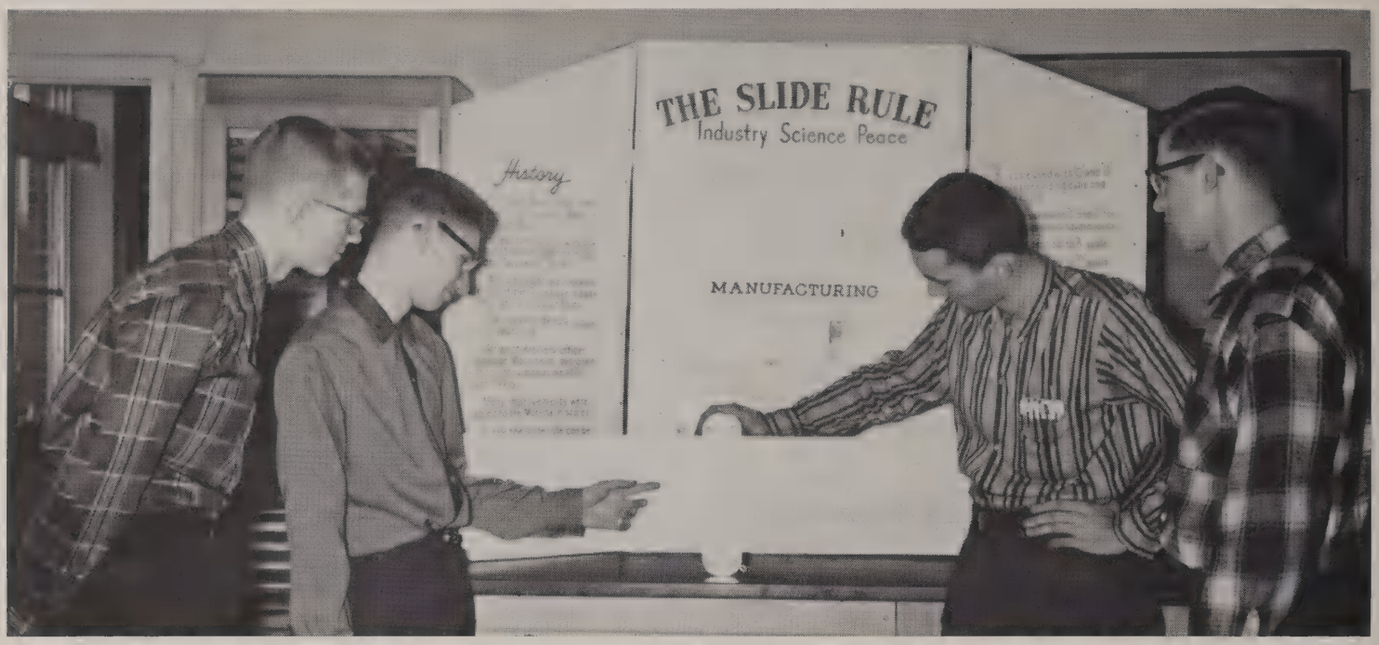
Math courses offer students well-rounded



Dennis Waltman, Dan Fedak, Norm Jacob, and Jim Lindow discuss Dan's king-sized slide rule at a Math Club meeting.

"Oh, no! all the polyhedral angles on my dodecahedron aren't even!" despaired one of PSH's solid geometry students, holding a pretty paper box that resembled a Christmas tree ornament. Nonsense? No, it served a very practical purpose. It was one of the devices our math teachers utilized to demonstrate math principles.

Novice mathematicians gain good backgrounds in equations and signed numbers in first year algebra. In advanced algebra classes more complex equations are solved, and students learn to use logarithms. Pupils find the processes they master in algebra indispensable in such courses as physics, chemistry, and advanced math courses.

"Pons Asinorum," bridge of fools, is the apt title given to one of the theorems mastered by plane geometry students. This subject encourages students to think in a logical way.

Solid geometry students go into the third dimension as they pore over cylinders, frustums, and other solids. In trig class PSH's future engineers and technicians study the useful triangle and the functions of its angles. Honors trig is offered for bright math students.

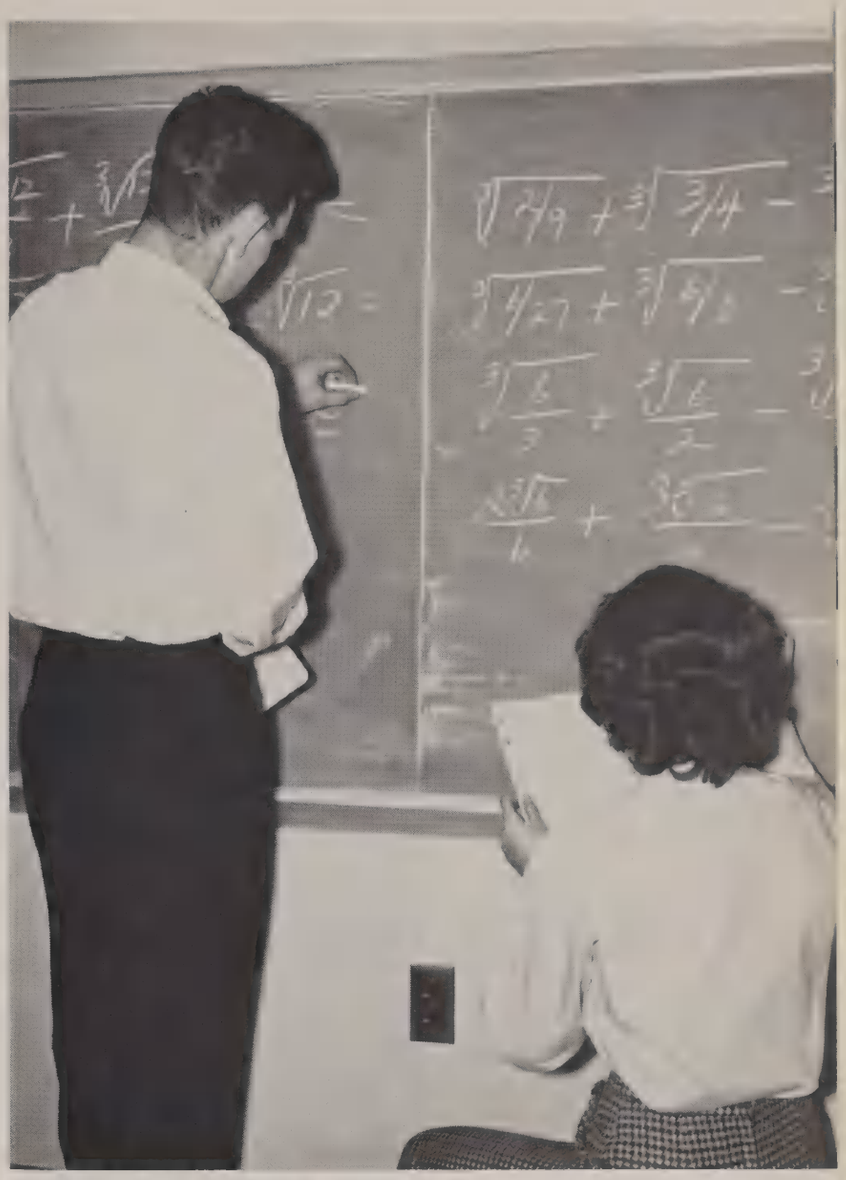
MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT—Mr. Frank W. Recker, AB, MA, chairman; Mr. Elmer Bihary, BS; Mr. J. Richard Dennis, BS in Ed.; Mr. Russell Hicks, AB; Mr. Alfred M. McGlinsky, BS.

knowledge of math processes and principles

Solid geometry pupils ask questions as Mr. Recker uses plane boards to plot lines on a three-dimensional graph.

Students whose future vocations will require only a rudimentary background in math ordinarily elect general math, while some industrial arts majors find that shop math is a very worthwhile subject. A math refresher course is offered for seniors who need a last minute brush-up.

Sputniks and space travel have interested many students in math, so the Math Club was formed under the direction of Mr. Hicks. This year's members enjoyed such experiences as a field trip to Case Tech to see Univac, the mammoth electronic brain, and a lecture on Boolean algebra.



Nick Kukul and Carolyn Altznauer cover an entire board with all the odd symbols of an advanced algebra problem.

Home Ec students gain practical know-how Tantalizing smells from the foods classes make many PSH-ers wish for "just a bite." Girls preparing to be homemakers, dieticians, or nurses increase their knowledge of food and vitamin values and learn to prepare delectable, well-balanced meals. Giving small parties, the girls become familiar with the etiquette of entertaining.

PSH's seamstresses cut, pin, baste, and then sew clothes for their "fashion plate" wardrobes. The greatest rewards come from approving comments of friends when the girls wear these clothes at school, work, and social events.

Russian offers new challenge to students

The launching of Russian, Latin III, and Spanish III into orbit at PSH marked the answer of our language department to Sputnik's challenge. In addition to Latin and Spanish, French and German help provide PSH students with the opportunity of gaining a better understanding of peoples and their customs which is so necessary in today's "small world." Mastering grammar and vocabulary and gaining conversational ease in these various languages also aid the pupils in enjoying both foreign poetry and prose and increasing their general knowledge of English.

Choristers, a primary group leading to Concert Choir, strives continually to learn and improve its vocal techniques.

Music students welcome broad curriculum

Color, both in tone and costume, dictated the appearance of PSH's vocal and instrumental organizations. Red or blue robes highlighted with white stoles or dickies symbolized our top two choirs, Concert Choir and Choralaires. Parmanaires, an all-male choir, often joined Choristers, Girls' Glee, Boys' Glee, Girls' Chorus, or Boys' Chorus for public appearances.

New tuxedos for the male members of Concert Orchestra added to the distinction of this instrumental group. Reserve and Varsity Bands worked diligently on their way up the ladder to Concert Band, comprised of PSH's top instrumentalists. Many music students also joined ensembles for extra-curricular vocal or instrumental work.

For the benefit of those majoring in this department, PSH also offers courses in music appreciation, music history, and music theory.

Promising artists display their talents

Mobiles dangling from the ceiling, paintings and sketches adorning the walls, paper and paint jars lining crowded shelves—this is an art room at PSH. Here capable art instructors give talented students direction and encouragement.

Beginning art students must master such basic materials as tempera paints, chalk, watercolors, charcoal, and India ink before advancing to more complicated media and techniques.

Wire sculpture, ceramics, oil paintings, textiles, paper and wood sculpture—these are some of the projects done by advanced students. They are encouraged to paint and design in both a realistic and abstract manner. Advanced art students enter their works in several contests and often earn recognition and awards. Art students may enter art schools and go on to vocations in advertising and commercial art.

Sign painting students create the many attractive posters that keep PSH-ers informed of social and athletic school events. These students prepare for careers in sign shops or window display. Stage settings for school productions are constructed by skillful stagecraft students.

From electronics to commercial photography the industrial arts department gives practical application to the knowledge and abilities of the student in many fields of industry. Courses in metals, machine shop, the graphic arts, crafts, electricity, woods, transportation, and drafting help the student prepare for technical school, college, business enterprises, and the trades. The growing need for trained manpower places an ever-widening emphasis on the industrial and vocational education. Over 900 students are enrolled annually in major courses of the department.

Students majoring in industrial arts explore four of the shop areas in which they seem to have the greatest interests and abilities. The junior and senior years are then devoted to developing advanced basic skills and technical knowledge in two of these areas. Students planning to go to college, technical schools, or compete for apprenticeships also may elect added courses.

Over 2000 adults enroll each year in the Adult Evening School. Every Tuesday and Thursday night the classes that range in scope from arc welding to upholstering are held at PSH.

Driver training is the most popular course of the department. Almost every period the driver training cars are in operation.

At the close of the school year many students enter their projects in local, state, and national competitions of craftsmanship. For the past five years, in addition to many individual honors, Parma won the award for the best display at the state convention in Columbus. Parma also placed high in the 1958 Ford International Industrial Arts Awards contest at Dearborn with three first places and two outstanding achievement awards.

Clickety-clack, whiz-bang! reverberated in the halls as typewriter carriages went zooming into place. Students studying in Parma's commercial department possess diversified interests. Acquainting themselves with the business world and its procedures is their principal goal. General business, the primary course, briefs students on the various vocations which might later be pursued. Familiarizing our prospective businessmen with world commercial and trade conditions constitutes the main task of the salesmanship and economic geography electives at Parma.

Landelin Johnson checks Gail Pebbles' bookkeeping journal for an elusive error that is causing a $14 shortage.

"Speed" and "efficiency" denote key words in our atomic age. They also form the chief goal of PSH's future secretaries. Students in shorthand and typing establish basic office skills. Nearly 400 students prepare for various careers in the business world by studying bookkeeping.

Office machines classes operate like authentic offices in which the students come and do their work daily. Personal and vocational typing prove to be invaluable for students planning to go to college. Other courses offered are consumer ed., law, secretarial practice, and business English.

Fitness and fun are aims of gym program

"It's just like bouncing on a cloud!" was uttered by a sophomore girl while jumping up and down on the trampoline. This contraption of canvas, steel, and "bounce" offered hours of fun and frolic for sophomores, juniors, and seniors in their physical education classes each day.

Girls improved their skills in such sports as volleyball, basketball, softball, and tumbling. Boys developed physical fitness by continual workouts and drills in sports. Activities included touch football and wrestling plus seasonal sports like baseball, basketball, and track.

Co-ed classes highlighted the square dancing and apparatus units. Participants enjoyed and benefited from the "exchange-skills" program.

"It just didn't bounce right!" was frequently repeated on the new tennis courts as former spectators entered the game for their first time. The courts provided recreation for the old "pros".

Health, a subject required of all juniors, is an essential course of the department.

LIBRARY STAFF—Miss Bernice F. Kirkpatrick, head librarian, AB, BS in Lib. Sc.; Mrs. Donelda Kuebler, library aide; Mrs. Wanda Munshower, clerk.

Each year, almost traditionally, sophomore English classes are introduced to the library. Here they will spend many hours writing reports and research papers. They will always find a patient librarian ready to locate that desperately needed, elusive book among the 10,000 other volumes.

Brick pillars and gleaming glass will compose the front wall of our new library. PSH-ers will welcome the added study space and growing collection of books and periodicals. In the modern building, librarians will be able to give more library service to more PSH-ers.

Mrs. Kuebler assists a student at the card catalog while others browse in the library or use the reference books.

SCHOOL NURSE—Mrs. Hazel M. Swanson, RN.

Ill or injured PSH-ers seek aid at the clinic, where Mrs. Swanson and the Clinic Aids are always on duty to administer first aid and sympathy. Clinic Aids also assist Mrs. Swanson by maintaining patients' records. From these duties they gain experience for nursing careers.

On frequent visits to PSH, the school physician examines students to make sure all of them are healthy and in good physical condition.

Cheerful, helpful, and efficient are only a few of the many complimentary terms that could be applied to our office secretaries. They are responsible for keeping records of students up-to-date and mimeographing tests for teachers. Besides these Herculean tasks, they also find time to sell workbooks, tend all lost articles, and take care of the ever-ringing switchboard by connecting lines and taking down messages.

Due to the increased number of students this year, a separate office was established for our attendance department and its secretaries.

cooks keep PSH running in tip-top shape

Each morning as groggy PSH students are shuffling to early classes, the efficient cooks are busy "rustlin' up" tasty meals to tempt even the most sensitive palates. They prepare a variety of dishes ranging from French fries to apple pie to satisfy ravenous appetites and keep youthful minds performing properly. Most amazing is the enormous quantity of food that they serve daily to the famished student body which converges on the cafeteria during lunch periods.

PSH custodians help keep a neat and attractive appearance in the halls and classrooms. Assisted by a staff of cleaning ladies, each day the custodians tackle the numerous tasks necessary for the maintenance of a large building. Shoveling snow, sweeping floors, and mowing lawns are just a few of their jobs. These custodians also are in charge of repairing and keeping our school equipment in perfect condition.

Both cooks and custodians play important roles in keeping PSH the "Queen of High Schools."

"United"—in spirit and purpose. A royal scepter of friendship directed many fun-filled activities and dubbed pupils with good sportsmanship at PSH. Students improved skills and ignited new interests.

Parma Senior High School is truly the "Queen of High Schools," not only in beauty and sports, but also in extra-curricular activities. PSH provides many clubs and organizations catering to the special interests of each student.

Through the honors groups such as the National Honor Society and the National Forensic League, the students earn recognition. The pre-professional clubs, which include FTA, FNC, and Shop Foremen, offer practical experience in their fields. Student Council and Cabinet promote a sense of responsibility and cooperation in their members. Social clubs such as Canteen Committee and Boosters provide fun and recreation for its members while members of Clinic Aids and other service groups find satisfaction and enjoyment working for the improvement of our school.

Our wide choice of extra-curricular activities and services gives every student ample opportunity to develop his social being and prepare him for a future of meeting and working with people.

NHS has largest membership in history

Listed on the WTIP bulletin board on the first Monday of each month was the announcement of a National Honor Society meeting. This group, advised by Mrs. Naomi Snyder and Mrs. Janet Stoddard, was active during the entire school year. A Christmas party, a bowling party, and the annual picnic were included among the group's social activities. In order to defray any expenses incurred during the year, members of the society sold tickets to the Sportsmen's Show.

Students inducted into NHS are required to have certain qualifications. Each must have maintained at least a 4.00 average and must have been reasonably active in school activities. Each must also symbolize good character, scholarship, leadership, and service to others, as represented on the keystone of the National Honor Society.

High points of the school year were the inductions. The first came last November, when ten per cent of the class of 1959 became members of National Honor Society; the second was in April, when the following juniors were inducted: Claire Bachman, Mike Bednar, Darleen Benson, Rose Mary Benya, Nancy Beyer, Kenneth Bucher, Tina Coppola, Linda Detrick, Arthur Eberle, Dave Fahrland, Carol Fleischer, Barbara Gardner, Janice Glaser, Tom Good, June Hicks, Marge Hitesman, John Holden, Tony Iacobucci, Kathy Kitzel, Ed Krause, Karen Kunz, Karen Kvaska, Richard Larsen, Christina Larson, Lynn Latter, Judy Link, Sue Lorenzen, Sharon Matis, Karen Mizek, Jane Morgan, Virginia Panek, Joan Patti, Pat Pensock, Judy Prusnek, Margie Rea, Bob Redick, Carl Ryant, John Schiessl, William Schultz, Mary Shaker, Bonita Slach, Linda Sullivan, Peggy Taliak, Joyce Tokar, Ray Vojir, Sue Volbrecht, Lois Wadzuk, Dave Walter, Dennis Waltman, Mary Ann Wolf, Linda Zaletel, Karen Zamberlan.

Walt Zaremba, our Student City Manager and the Student Council President, spearheaded a joint drive of the Student City Cabinet and Council to raise three thousand dollars for the new Parma Community General Hospital. Walt, whose job is to coordinate Council, Cabinet, and all the other school activities, was largely responsible for the success of the drive for the hospital fund.

The race with time was difficult, but by mid-year the drive was ahead with half the goal realized. Major factors in the drive's progress were the two All-School Parties, the tax stamp drive, and contributions from school clubs. Many school clubs sponsored their own fund-raising projects and turned the money over to the drive.

The Student City Cabinet's job is to advise the SCM and the Council. Its members are appointed by the Student City Manager. The Cabinet also helped with "Twirp Season," LEL Day, and the Christmas baskets as well as school publicity, assemblies, and transportation to the games.

to encourage school and community spirit

"Let's all bring in those tax stamps." This plea was heard quite frequently during the year. The Student Council planned and carried out the vast task of collecting and counting tax stamps for our donation to the Parma Community General Hospital. Proceeds from the January 18th All-School Party also went to this fund. The grand total of this fund, $3,000, purchased a ward in this hospital in the name of PSH.

This group also kept for Parma the title of "Queen of High Schools" by aiding us in increasing our contribution to the United Fund Appeal. Their campaigning skyrocketed student donations and thus raised our Lake Erie League standing in the field of civic responsibility.

Competition for membership was keen. Each candidate first had to obtain the signatures of ten of his classmates on his petition. Each was then elected by members of his own class. Meeting twice each month, Mr. Leonard Lang's Student Council solved many of our "Queen's" problems.

Joyce Estronick, Marilyn Sponseller, and Bev Mitchell count an accumulation of tax stamps for hospital fund.

Canteen Committee, WTIP join together

Barb Herip cuts capers with that old gentleman from the North Pole, who dropped in at the Christmas canteen.

Providing Saturday-night recreation and relaxation for some 500-plus spirited PSH students was the man-size task of the Canteen Committee. Under the direction of the PTA and Faculty Adviser Mr. David Spittal, they met once a month to plan coming attractions. To furnish a wide variety of music for each dance, they engaged such popular personalities as Big Wilson, Joe Finan, and Tommy Edwards. A combination of special dress, guest stars, and attractive decorations helped to make the Christmas, Valentine, and Mardi Gras canteens the best of the year.

to bring music and news to PSH students

"This is WTIP, Radio Parma," featuring Mary Ann Rudyk, Sheila Oscar, Terry Ford, Don Vlasak, and Marty Demko.

Resounding through the homerooms at PSH each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday were the familiar voices of the announcers on the staff of WTIP. "Club Capers," a department of the station, presented news of the many school clubs, while the events in basketball, football, wrestling, and other sports activities were broadcast from the Sports Department. The announcement of the junior and senior play casts and special broadcasts during holidays were features of WTIP programming. Mr. Lewis Cowgill supervised the activities of both announcers and engineers.

WTIP's Terry Ford interviews Frank Brzygot, member of PSH's basketball team, before the Parma-Lakewood game.

Morning Show engineers, Gordon Ewald, Jim Shaw, and Walt Masky, prepare for another informative broadcast.

"The Night of January 16th" and "Finian's

As Herbert Bonkowsky looks on, Ralph Jarvis questions Joyce Sadowski in scene from "The Night of January 16."

Was it intentional . . . premeditated? Did Karen Andre kill Bjorn Faulkner, a multi-million dollar financier? These questions constituted the main plot of the senior play, "The Night of January 16th," given on November 21 and again on the 22nd. This spine-tingling mystery was presented under the supervision of Mr. Spittal and his two student directors, Sandy Schuller and Bob Cody.

This year's play was unusual in every aspect. First, a jury was chosen right from the audience. The jurors were completely unaware of the plot of the play. Their decision was actually their own. Secondly, in order to accommodate the verdict of the jury, the play was written with two entirely different endings. An exciting novel twist was created when the jury found the defendant, Karen Andre, to be innocent one night, and a different jury found her guilty the next.

"Look to the Rainbow." If you did and followed it to the end, you discovered the talented Junior Class presenting "Finian's Rainbow," under the direction of Mr. James Mayer. You witnessed another PSH "first", for this enterprising class accepted the challenge of presenting the first musical comedy in the school's history.

Overcoming difficulties with the governor and a leprechaun, Finian McLonergan saves the day for the Rainbow Valley sharecroppers. This was the tale told by the production's large cast of 40, including a chorus and dancers.

Reg Olson, surrounded by the junior play cast, plans his trip to "Glocamorra" during "Finian's Rainbow" rehearsal.

Revived from the state of dormancy, troupe 461 of the National Thespians Society, under its new adviser, Miss Vivian Larsen, had a very active year. Eighteen members were inducted into the troupe. Thespian productions were presented to the PTA, students, and the public.

This year's activities of the Parma chapter of the National Forensic League extended from the student congresses to debates. The climax was a tournament held on January 17 at PSH. Thirty schools attended, and the Pilot Memorial Trophy was awarded. Miss Larsen was the new adviser.

Discussions, debates, student congresses, and individual events tournaments from Port Clinton to Youngstown occupied PSH's Speech Team from October through April. After a late start the team, under the direction of Miss Larsen, ended the year by sweeping both the Ohio High School Speech League finals and National Forensic League district contest. Parma placed winners in Original Oratory, Girls' and Boys' Extemp, Debate, Radio Speech, and in Dramatic Declamation. Ralph Jarvis captured first place in the latter which qualified him for the NFL nationals.

The second and fourth Thursday of every month would find a Soc N' Buskin meeting scheduled on the WTIP Bulletin Board. Under the direction of their adviser, Miss Irene Milliron, Soc members performed many services during the year. Maintaining a cloakroom, selling tickets for plays, and acting as guides and timekeepers at the NFL Tournament were just a few. Taking time for fun, Soc members attended a play at Karamu.

"Now let's try that once again, and this time try to put more feeling into your voice." This reminder was heard thousands of times during the past year by members of Masquers. Students in this club were aided in perfecting their dramatic skill by their adviser, Mr. James Mayer. In December they gave an evening performance in PSH's Little Theater. They presented "No, No, a Million Times, No!", a melodrama.

1959 Concert Choir presents "Lonesome

Miss Hill and Concert Choir officers—Treasurer Jay Gradisher, Robe Mistress Joni Campbell, President Rich Klym, Secretary Mary Ann Rudyk, Vice-President Darryl Kinion, Librarian Joan Patti, and Robe Master Ihor Urbansky.

With the pride worthy of a queen, Parma's Concert Choir, directed by Miss Lucile E. Hill, again sang in the LEL Choir Festival held this year at Euclid High School. Their program included "Breath of God" and "Mother to Son."

Caroling in the Union Terminal and on the Public Square, preparing two assemblies for the student body, and singing at Halle's and for the Kiwanis Club occupied the Choir's time during the Christmas season. Concert Choir's traditional processional, "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day," rang through the auditorium on December 14 when the choral groups presented their annual Christmas Vesper Concert.

In their most moving appearance of the year, the Choir sang as the sun rose on Easter morning in the 13th annual Easter Sunrise Program at Sunset Memorial Park in North Olmsted. The Spring Choral Extravaganza on May 8 and Commencement exercises on June 4 finished the season for Parma's 1959 Concert Choir.

Train" for the Spring Choral Extravaganza

Concert Choir, directed by Anne Reichheld, entertains at Christmastime in annual appearance on Public Square.

The true spirit of Christmas is portrayed through carols by Choristers and Choralaires at their Vesper Concert.

Blue robes topped with white dickies symbolized PSH's all-girl choir, the Choralaires. Under the direction of Miss Hill, the girls sang on many occasions, including the Christmas Concert, PTA Convention, the Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies, and for the Parma American Association of University Women. In order to qualify for Choralaires, each girl must have had an "A" average in a previous choral experience.

Parmanaires, a boys' group on the same level as Choralaires, also performed in the Thanksgiving assembly, the PTA Convention, and the spring concert. One of the songs they sang at the assembly was "The Navy Hymn." Other pieces they did included "Cool Water," "Riders in the Sky," and many Negro spirituals.

Another of the "Queen's" many choral groups is Choristers, a mixed chorus of boys and girls who were recommended by their junior high choir directors. Meeting separately twice a week, they joined forces on Fridays. This year, the Parmanaires, Girls' Glee, Choristers, and Boys' Chorus combined to form the Christmas Chorus which sang in the Christmas Vesper Concert.

Dear Doris,
This year's been a lot of fun, especially the prom. Good luck and all that sort of thing.
Sincerely
Karen

Marching Band and Majorettes stand in a block "P" as the Alma Mater is played during halftime of a football game.

With the twirl of a baton, the high-stepping drum major led Parma High's Marching Band as they marked the beginning of another football game. Composed of both Concert Band and Varsity Band members, the Marching Band presented half-time shows at all the games. Under the direction of Miss Barbara Rankin, the band zipped through such shows as "Homecoming Highlights," "Parma Weather Report," "The Farmer in the Dell," and "A Night at Home with the Family."

Led by the new drum major, Dennis Mertes, and Head Majorette Donna Smith, the nine majorettes worked out routines for each program.

With the last touchdown, the flip folders were exchanged for concert music ranging from Bach to bop. Concert season included two public concerts, assemblies, and band contest. Highlights of the contest at Berea were Franck's "Symphony in D Minor" and Wagner's "Invocation of Alberich." After extensive practice, the band played these pieces to prove their ability to the judges.

Tuxedos and formals were the attire for members of Concert Orchestra at their Spring Concert this year. Directed by Mr. Robert Cowden, the Orchestra accompanied plays, performed for the PEA banquet, and took part in the annual Lake Erie League Orchestra Festival. On January 10, fifteen Parma students participated in the Northeast Regional Orchestra which was held at Parma and composed of students from 25 schools.

Another "first" for Parma was chalked up by the Orchestra this year. Competing with many other orchestras at Oberlin, Parma received a superior rating in the state-wide contest.

Parma joined the Young People's Chamber Music Society this year. Working with Mr. Cowden, the members joined ensembles and learned more about the principles of ensemble music. Many groups participated in the Greater Cleveland Solo and Ensemble Contest.

Varsity Band, directed by Miss Rankin and organized to help prepare band members for Concert Band, also appeared in public. It participated in the Band and Orchestra Concert and ended the year in the Seven Hills Memorial Day Parade.

"What's the movie today?" Throughout the year movie crew ushers answered with "Heaven Knows Mr. Allison," "Carousel," "Pajama Game," "Trapeze," and many more. Under their director, Mr. Cowgill, the girls also ushered for evening functions such as concerts, plays, and Variety Show.

Checking out books is just one of the many duties of the Library Aides as they help the efficient library staff.

Helping out in the library by doing various jobs, the Library Aides soon learned the meaning of the word "efficiency." Under the direction of Miss Bernice Kirkpatrick, the students gave up their free time to enable other students to enjoy the facilities that the library offers.

Keeping the library neat and orderly was one of their main jobs. They also checked out books and placed them in their proper order on the shelves when they were returned. The Aides kept old magazines filed accurately to enable students to use them for reference work or for pleasure.

This year's office pages weren't sure whether they had joined the cross-country team or not. But they enjoyed their work of running errands and combing the building with requests for students. They "paged" for the counselors or the main or attendance office secretaries.

Giving first aid when it was needed and taking charge of the girls' and boys' clinic were the main duties of the Clinic Aids. When a student became ill, it was the duty of the Clinic Aid to make him feel as comfortable as possible. Mrs. Hazel Swanson, our nurse, was their adviser.

Mrs. Hazel Swanson awards Kay Schumacher her FNC pin as Virginia Sobolewski looks on with much admiration.

"Should I become a nurse? If so, which school is best? Which program is best to follow—the three, four, or five-year one?" . . . . These are some of the questions that the Future Nurses of America Club helps its members answer. The club often featured speakers from different hospitals. At that time, the members could receive firsthand information to questions they might have. They received additional help from seeing movies featuring different phases of nursing.

With the guidance of their sponsors, Mrs. Iris Kuehls and Mrs. Hazel Swanson, the members participated in both service and social activities. For their service project they donated a basket of food to a deserving family at Thanksgiving. During the second semester, the FNC members received their pins. It was necessary for a member to volunteer eight or more hours of service without charge; then she had earned the privilege of wearing her FNC pin—the symbol of her willingness to work hard for her profession.

nursing and teaching with varied programs

Were you a little startled to hear snatches of conversations like, "They were so well behaved and had perfect manners" or "They raced to see who could be first to hand me a book"? The prattling girls you had overheard were FTA members who had just returned from their teaching experience at Parma's elementary or junior high schools. Some also taught at the senior high.

These were only part of the activities enjoyed by FTA members. This club, one of the largest groups here at PSH, was certainly one of the most active with two meetings a month, one business and one social. The Christmas party and Senior Farewell were important events in the FTA year.

However, this is a service group. Each girl earned at least 10 service hours a month by aiding teachers with grading papers, selling book covers and folders during the lunch periods, or volunteering free time to other service groups.

Miss Jenny Lind Givens, assisted by Mrs. Susie Wisdahl, assumed more responsibility this year, for PSH was the home of another "first"—a Boys' FTA. Organized in the fall by Miss Givens, the boys studied opportunities in the teaching field.

Boys' FTA members are: Larry Frutkin, president; Phil Lewicke, vice-president; John Tarnavecky; Tom Becka, secretary; Steve Weber; Ron Tvorik, treasurer; Doug Cooper.

"Hold that line, boys" doesn't necessarily apply only to the football team. The PSH Senior Patrol, supervised by Detective Martin Feador, maintained order at sporting events, dances, plays, or at any PSH function where an admission was collected. The carefully selected rookies met every Tuesday at the police station to learn the best methods for carrying out their duties, but they still found time to plan a social whirl each month.

One of the most important jobs in a school is maintaining safety and order in the halls. This task is performed by the Hallguards of PSH. Under their adviser, Miss Elizabeth Hawkins, the Hallguards learned the school rules and helped see that they were kept in effect. To make sure that the jobs were carried through was the responsibility of the 1958-59 Safety Director, Meriele Hill, and her assistant, Janet Maneri.

With the help of their advisers, Mrs. Suzanne D'Ettorre and Mrs. Elizabeth Duke, the Junior-Senior Y-Teens planned many fun-filled activities. A trip to the Berea Methodist Home and the gift exchange Christmas party helped brighten the holiday spirit of the club members.

In December came the highlight of the year—a semi-formal dance. Y-Teen members and their dates danced to the music of the Premiers under "The Teahouse of the December Moon." A swimming party at the YMCA and their annual Senior Farewell Dinner ended this eventful year.

During their joint meeting in February, Parma Y-Teens take their guests from Rhodes on a guided tour of PSH.

Preparing a delicious pot-luck dinner for the Boys Boosters was one of the activities of the Sophette Y-Teens. With the help of Miss Carolyn Hanser, the girls made tray favors for the Berea Methodist Home at Easter. A panel on dating and a Halloween party made an eventful year.

Five girls elected from each class composed the membership of Girls' Board. Guided by Miss Barbara Baesel, these girls sponsored Top Teen Week climaxed by the election of Mr. and Miss PSH. To add money to the Parma General Community Hospital fund, they held a bake sale.

During the past year the French Club supported many worthy activities. Guided by Miss Helen Campbell, members sent a package to CARE and a donation to the Save the Children Federation. The club's activities included a Christmas party, a picnic, and a profitable candy sale.

Through panel discussions and a play, members of the Latin Club gained a better understanding of Roman life and culture. Advised by Mrs. Mildred Robinson, this organization had a booth at the All-School Party and participated in the language clubs' annual dance and spring picnic.

Several cultural activities were included on the agenda of the newly formed PSH Russian Club. With their adviser, Mr. Steven Bizic, the members enjoyed talks about Russian history, attended a college Russian class at Kent State, and performed dances at Crile and Akron University.

A Christmas pinata, the traditional "arroz con pollo" dinner, a dance after a basketball game, and the annual spring picnic kept members of the Spanish Club busy during the past year. Advised by Miss Barbara Brailey, the club strived to become better acquainted with Spanish customs.

Members of the German Club had fun sharing in many social activities, which included attending German movies and sponsoring a bowling party and dance. Several in the club who had come from Germany added special interest to meetings. Mrs. Carol Nelson was the adviser.

Junior Council on World Affairs is primarily a discussion club. Under the sponsorship of the Council on World Affairs, JCWA had many panels, lectures, and debates; the year was highlighted by the annual "Model United Nations Assembly" at Lakewood. Mr. James Justice was the adviser.

More issues of Hi Spot keep PSH informed

One of the new clubs at PSH this year was the International Quill and Scroll, an honorary organization for high school journalists. At the installation were two guest speakers from Kent who gave the members ideas about writing copy. Mr. William Piskos served as the adviser.

Every other Friday found students at PSH rushing to buy copies of the school paper, the Parma Hi Spot. Editor Tom Suchan and Adviser Mr. William Piskos supervised the work of reporters and editors in producing the final publication. Mr. Eugene Weakland was the financial adviser.

Science Club members Ken Bucher, Dave Fahrland, and Marv Nevans adjust "frapistat" on cosmic ray telescope.

Stimulating the interest of PSH "Space-Age" students in the world of science was the goal of the Science Club. This was accomplished with the help of movies, a guest speaker, and a trip to the Case Computer Center. Under the direction of Mr. Everette Tompkins, the group erected a cosmic ray telescope. Each member also gave a half-hour talk on his particular interest.

Good grades and proficiency are prerequisites to becoming a shop foreman. A foreman's duties are to assist instructors with beginning classes and student records. This year they undertook the project of building 20 piano dollies for the Parma Board of Education. Shop foremen, advised by Mr. Robert Fricker, took a field trip to the General Motors Institute in Flint, Michigan.

Fun as well as service projects could describe the activities of the Home Economics Club. Under the guidance of Miss Nancy Roberts, the members gained experience in cooking by baking cookies for the All-School Party and by preparing a spaghetti dinner in the spring. At Christmas they donated gifts to the orphans at Parmadale, which gave the girls a feeling of self-satisfaction.

Literary Editor Joyce Tokar asks Sandy Schuller, Editor-in-chief of the '59 SPECTRUM, about the progress chart.

Last summer when visions of water skiing and baseball danced in the heads of most PSH students, the Spectrum staff congregated at Editor-in-chief Sandy Schuller's house and drew up the "dummy" —their blueprint of the "bigger and better" edition of this year's 1959 Spectrum.

As the new year rolled around at Parma, the energetic crew started the long process of arranging for pictures to be taken, interviewing, writing, rewriting, and rewriting. The perennial problem of forty-seven characters per line consistently appeared to harried writers. Such matters as heads, bleeds, and cutlines demanded close attention from busy staff members. While the March 19 deadline grew more and more ominous, Staff Adviser Miss Emily Wilson patiently worked with the group on numerous details.

When the copy was completed, the tedious task of indexing was begun. After one mad last minute scurry, the precious pages of your '59 Spectrum were carefully sent away to the printers.

Cynthia Russell, editor of the underclass section, and Patti Bernotas, editor of the activities section, supervise as Jan Cowgill types her copy. Meanwhile, Layout Editor Larry Boesger checks margins on Pat's "dummy."

Staff typists helped complete last minute work. Members then handled the enormous job of distributing the yearbooks and balancing the budget.

Girls Boosters have done it again! Amid cheering crowds at the Homecoming Game they accepted the first place trophy for their prize-winning float, the result of weeks of careful planning and hard work, advised by Mrs. Sallie Richards. Again during football season, the girls held the annual "Powder Puff" football game. They also earned money by selling programs at the games.

"Get your game tickets here!" This was the call of the Boys Boosters as they competed with the Girls Boosters for a top sales record. Building a float, decorating the goal posts, and selling license plate tags were only a few of their many activities advised by Mr. John Rowan.

Teamwork and action develop the skills of enterprising players striving to meet their goals. Through good training and leadership, team members at PSH learned the art of being good sports—win or lose.

To climax the most successful football season in the history of PSH, the Redmen were honored at a special assembly December 4. At this time Co-captains Rich Shaker and Dave Condon accepted the Lake Erie League Championship Trophy from Mr. Wayne C. Blough.

1958 saw Parma capture the LEL title, its first since entering the league in the fall of 1953, and rank ninth in the Associated Press Ohio high school top ten rating. Led by Head Coach Mr. Bob Brugge and Coaches Mr. Jim Fritzsche, Mr. Dick Galleher, and Mr. Bob Fricker, the Redmen notched their first undefeated campaign since 1948.

At the football banquet given by the Parma Lions Club, Rich Shaker received the most valuable player trophy, while the sportsmanship award went to Larry Zipsir. Frank Gaal and Chuck Staresina were named "most improved," and Dave Condon was awarded the scholarship trophy. Dave was also voted All-Scholastic by the Press and the News and made several all-state teams.

Sprinting past several would-be tacklers, Parma halfback Rich Shaker breaks into Berea's secondary for a big gain.

Powerful Redmen snare LEL title; finish 9-0

In the season's opener, the Redmen scored early and hung on to defeat Akron Hower, 6-0. Larry Zipsir's outstanding play at left halfback earned him a spot on the News Dream Team backfield.

Parma celebrated the fifteenth renewal of an old neighborhood rivalry by trouncing Rhodes to the tune of 28-0. The Rams never seriously threatened as the Redmen rolled to their third straight victory over their traditional foes.

Leading by a narrow 6-0 count at halftime, an aroused Parma team tallied twice in the second half to earn a 22-8 verdict over St. Edwards.

The Redmen rambled on to their fourth straight triumph by defeating Shaw's Cardinals 6-0 in the season's LEL opener. The game was scoreless until early in the third quarter when Glen Norman plunged three yards for a touchdown. Parma's hard-hitting line sent six Shaw players to the sidelines, three in the first five minutes of play. Because of his sparkling performance, Larry Zipsir was picked for the PresStar Team.

By trampling Shaker Heights, 36-6, Parma gained sole possession of first place in the LEL. The Redmen gave the Homecoming Night fans plenty to cheer about as they scored in every period and held the Red Raiders scoreless until the closing stanza. Guard Dave Condon made the News Dream Team for his alert play.

Parma completely dominated play, as they rolled to a 28-0 triumph over the Lakewood Rangers. The Redmen scored the first time they had possession of the ball with Rich Shaker slashing four yards for the TD. After this game Frank Zaremba was placed on the News Dream Team.

In a showdown for first place in the LEL, Parma defeated a battling Cleveland Heights club, 12-6. Both teams were undefeated, but the Redmen tallied in the first and fourth quarters and held the Tigers scoreless until the last minute of play. Jim Campi hauled in two TD's and became the fourth Redman to make the News Dream Team.

Euclid scored first, but a spirited Redmen squad bounced back to take a lead which it never relinquished. The result was a 28-14 victory and the undisputed Lake Erie League title.

The Redmen thrilled a Dads' Night crowd and put the finishing touches to an undefeated season by downing Berea's Braves, 24-8.

This year's edition of the junior varsity Redmen notched Parma's first Lake Erie League JV football title by finishing with a 5-0-1 slate. Coached by Mr. Jack Ellis and Mr. Ken Wiley, both in their initial seasons as junior varsity mentors, the gridders produced the first undefeated campaign since a JV squad was organized in 1953.

Opening the season with a 38-0 trouncing of Rhodes, Parma quickly gathered momentum to carry them through the rest of the schedule. The only blemish on their record was a scoreless tie with a tough Shaker Heights team. All of the junior Redmen were promoted to the varsity for the campaign's finale with Berea, and many saw action in the closing minutes of the contest.

Because of their fine team performance, the entire squad, numbering thirty boys, received numerals at the December 3 football banquet.

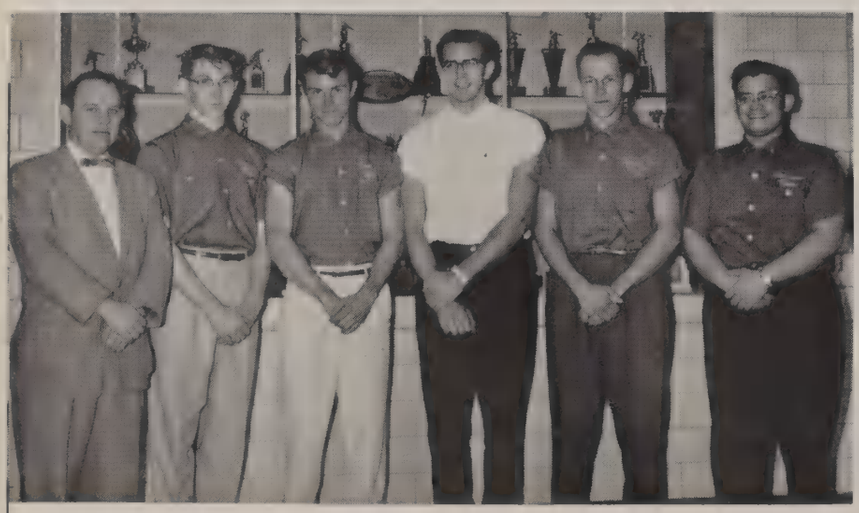
Parma's tennis team, coached by Mr. Ernie Posgai, placed fifth in the Lake Erie League with a 1 win - 4 loss record. After losing their first three matches to Lakewood, Shaker Heights, and Shaw, the netters rebounded to shellac Euclid, 5-0. Ending the season, the Redmen visited Cleveland Heights and lost by the same score, 5-0.

At the tennis banquet sponsored by the Men's Boosters, Mark With received the Most Valuable Player Award for the second successive year. Of the fourteen team members, six earned second-year awards and two merited first-year letters.

BOWLING TEAM—Coach William Kuttler, Al Bloesinger, Bob Turocy, Dan Kolarsky, Jim Labuda, Russ Natherson.



Under the direction of Coach William Kuttler, Parma's bowling team snared third place in the News Interscholastic Bowling League with a 45-23 effort. The Redmen started slowly but gradually gathered momentum and finished with a bang.

The team was very evenly balanced: there were only seven pins difference between the highest average, that of Captain Russ Natherson, and the lowest. From October 20 to February 28 the squad practiced Friday nights and competed Saturday mornings at Linsz-Superior Recreation. At the sports banquet all six bowlers received awards.

Determined grapplers post 6-4 overall record

Tutored by Mr. Frank Germane who was assisted by Mr. Joseph Charnigo, the grapplers snared fourth place in the LEL with a 2 win - 3 loss record and compiled a fine 6-4 overall slate. Parma finished sixth in both the Hiram and the district tournaments. In the latter Harry Houska qualified for the state finals by placing second in the 165 pound class. Unfortunately, he lost a hard-fought decision in the opening round of the finals.

At the winter sports banquet, 12 wrestlers received awards. Jim Campi was named "most valuable" and Ron Masanek, "most improved."

Bill Gambino, who finished third in the LEL in scoring, slips in from underneath to notch two more Parma points.

Coached by Mr. Pat Cordisco and Mr. Elmer Bihary, Parma's varsity cagers produced a 7 win - 9 loss record. Posting a 4-6 league effort enabled the Redmen to end the season in a deadlock with Shaker Heights for third place in the LEL.

At the winter sports banquet Bill Gambino received the most valuable player trophy, and Rich Shaker was awarded the sportsmanship trophy.

Parma started the season right by decisioning St. Edwards, 80-66. Opening the third quarter with several quick baskets, the Redmen rebounded from a 32-32 deadlock and were never "headed."

In the LEL opener the Redmen scored a thrilling, tension-packed 63-61 victory over Euclid's Panthers. At one time Parma trailed by 13 points, but they took the lead early in the fourth quarter and hung on to gain their second victory.

Benedictine handed the Redmen their first loss, 46-39. The Bengals grabbed an early lead, but Parma simply couldn't get started.

Two successful free throws by Shaw in the last second of play caused Parma's downfall, 48-46. At halftime the score was knotted 23-23, and in the last half the lead changed hands nine times.

4-6 effort and compile 7-9 season's record

Rebounding from two straight setbacks, the Redmen defeated Shaker Heights, 71-65, and climbed to second place in the LEL. Parma owned a 40-32 advantage at the intermission and outlasted the Red Raiders in the second half.

In the annual classic the varsity had little trouble turning back the Alumni, 63-54.

Slightly rusty from a three week lay-off, Parma lost a tough 63-50 verdict to Lakewood. The scrappy Redmen hung on gamely throughout most of the rough-and-tumble contest but couldn't quite cope with the Rangers' fourth quarter surge.

The Parma cagers had complete control during most of the game and coasted to a 50-45 victory over their arch-rivals, the Rhodes Rams.

In a controversial, fiercely fought contest, the Redmen dropped a heart-breaking 59-57 decision to Cleveland Heights. Parma had a 57-53 advantage with seconds remaining, but then the roof fell in; a combination of fouls, technicals, and field goals spelled defeat. Heights' winning basket came with but two seconds remaining.

Duplicating the earlier Parma-Euclid thriller, the varsity captured an exciting 66-64 overtime verdict. Although leading most of the way, the Redmen had to come from behind to tie. A field goal by Frank Brzygot with one second remaining sent the game into overtime, and Johnny Neuenschwander's basket iced the contest.

At the end of the first quarter Parma held a 19-18 lead, but they couldn't keep up the pace and finally lost to Shaw by a 73-60 count.

Shaker Heights' ball handling and outside shooting proved costly to the Redmen, who finished on the short end of a 52-47 score.

Parma simply couldn't get started and went down to defeat at the hands of Berea, 56-51.

In another thriller, Lakewood sank the winning basket with seven seconds remaining to earn an exciting 54-53 victory over the Redmen.

Avenging a previous defeat, an inspired varsity trounced Cleveland Heights to the tune of 67-54. By downing the Tigers in their last league game, the cagers climbed into third place in the LEL.

The opening contest of the sectional tournaments saw Parma, experiencing an off night, lose to an underrated St. Stanislaus club, 65-55.

Supervised by Mr. Fritzsche, the Boys Leaders held their own honors gym class three times per week. The main duty of the Leaders was to assist the physical education instructors in conducting classes. This involved leading calisthenics, demonstrating fundamental techniques in various sports, maintaining discipline, and officiating at athletic contests during gym periods.

Included among the Leaders' many activities were sponsoring a dance after the Parma-Shaw basketball game, selling PSH decals, and dancing the Charleston for the All-School Party.

Duey Landreth grimaces as he high jumps 4 feet, 9 inches, which placed him second in the Parma-St. Ignatius meet.

Athletics provide challenge for sports-minded

Boys' intramural basketball lasted from January 8 to March 6. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors all competed in one league of 16 teams. Each squad played several preliminary games in preparation for a double elimination tournament. In the finals the Comets easily beat the Netters, 43-24, and thus walked off with the championship. Bob Ralph finished first in the annual foul shooting contest by sinking 85 of his 100 shots.

Sponsored by Mr. William Herlihy, intramural tennis lasted from October 1 to November 14. Bob Rafter won the tennis championship.

In addition to basketball and fall tennis, a variety of other sports, including table tennis, badminton, golf, and spring tennis, were available to any boy who desired to participate. The entire boys' intramural program was under the capable direction of Mr. Richard Galleher.

Physical education classes met twice a week for the purpose of improving physical fitness, developing coordination, and learning the fundamentals of various sports. The students participated in group games such as basketball, football, volleyball, and baseball. Individual athletic prowess was emphasized in tumbling, wrestling, tennis, and on the apparatus. For the first time co-educational classes in square dancing were held.

All 25 squad members worked hard in anticipation of the opener with Berea on April 13.

Business meetings with the adviser, Mrs. Lois Bowen, and practice three nights a week resulted in acrobatic skill and precision-like cheers.

Red and white was the typical color scheme in the girls' gym on Monday and Wednesday mornings. These colors helped signify Girls Leaders, the student aides in the gym department. Taking attendance, giving exercises, demonstrating basic skills, running errands, and helping at Intramurals were just a part of their duties.

A Get-Acquainted Party, a candy sale, a float for the Homecoming Parade, an Alumni party, a mothers' dinner, and traditional Leaders' Week were among many worthwhile activities planned with the help of their adviser, Miss Ruth Felt.

With the addition of hiking, tennis, and field activities to the spring sports' agenda, the four instructors, Miss Felt, Mrs. Bowen, Miss Lillian Koehler, and Miss Marcia Carlson, found few spare moments to themselves.

Shrieks of happiness and the crash of the pins combined to make a noisy atmosphere for some 200 girl bowlers. During afternoons after school, these girls gathered at local alleys, each with the hope that her team might reign as champ of their league. This year the champs of one league traveled to Playhouse Square Lanes to take first place in the West Cuyahoga Bowling Tournament for the second year in a row. Besides supervising the four leagues, Miss Felt, Miss Koehler, Miss Carlson, and Miss Colleen Cochrane offered pointers on correct bowling form and scoring.

Crowded conditions at PSH made it necessary for intramurals to be divided into an A and B group this year. But even with the playing time cut in half, the team spirit and excitement were present. Sports-minded girls gathered on Monday and Friday nights for games of volleyball, basketball, and softball. These games, set up in tournament style by the Co-presidents Gail Vonderau and Cindy Gray, and their adviser, Miss Felt, provided girls with an opportunity to make new friends and develop co-ordination. Sportsmanship and teamwork stood as the girls' ideals.

We'll never forget going to games, bus rides home, friendly conversation and laughter in the halls, keeping up with the latest fads—all important parts of student life—Parma's court of personalities.

Books and classes, clubs and games, canteens and proms—all are part of student life at PSH. Whether it's reading into the wee hours to finish a book review, searching for a new dress for the senior dance, or racing to the cafeteria for lunch—all belong to student life.

Though fall brought a change from summer leisure, it didn't take long for 3200 students to slip into the familiar routine at PSH.

Throughout the school year Parma-ites were able to take new courses offered at PSH, join different clubs, and attend numerous activities. Strong school spirit carried us through an undefeated football season to our first LEL title. Students joined their classmates in presenting the class assemblies, and they brought tax stamps to promote the new Parma hospital. The prom and junior dance in May climaxed our social year.

As books closed in June, students awaited news of college acceptances or made plans for summer jobs—another part of a student's life.

Noise and hurried errands spell "morning"

Typical Monday-through-Friday morning scene: bus riding students disembarking in the Parma Senior High bus loop.

Time to rise and shine—but what a time!, the average PSH student thought, as he noted the early hour on the alarm clock which had just jarred him out of sleep. Unwilling and groggy, he arose, sleepily ate breakfast, and got ready for school. After a frantic last-minute search for his mislaid lunch or a lost textbook, he found himself out in the bracing morning air trudging toward the bus stop in time to catch the bus.

Once on the bus, he discovered happily that the noise would keep him awake until he reached PSH. A brief, clamorous "social hour" in the cafeteria was ended by the 7:45 bell. After a trip to his locker, several encounters with his friends, and maybe an emergency mission to the supply store, he was ready for his first class.

Unlike him, many PSH-ers weren't due until homeroom period. But even at that later hour, some were tardy. They gave a variety of explanations in all degrees of probability, but they were late nonetheless. This necessitated quick trips to the main lobby for tardy permits. After receiving their permits, they were ready for another day at the "Queen of High Schools," Parma Senior High.

Parma-ites queue up outside room 101 for excuses. Providing them is one of counselors' numerous daily duties.

After each period Parma-ites battle the crowds as they struggle to reach their next class—all in five minutes.

Crowded halls and sleepy students herald

Sheila Oscar, Don Vlasek, and Terry Ford, members of the Morning Show, report news of the day to homerooms.

Each day at the sound of the 9:25 bell, thousands of PSH-ers scurry from classrooms to homeroom. Students just arriving at school make a mad dash to their lockers before the tardy bell.

Once in homeroom we may do anything from filling out our schedule cards and choosing next semester subjects to voting for Top Teens, class colors, or Homecoming Queen. We are also given a chance to lighten our purses through reminders of overdue books, collection of class dues, and contributions for charity drives.

Thursday, assembly day, brings a change in the routine. The student body, which is divided into two groups, attends on alternate weeks. This year we listened to the music of the Joe Howard Trio, viewed the wonders of liquid oxygen, and heard Harrison Dillard speak on personality.

At the close of each assembly students rise for the singing of the Alma Mater and then depart from the jammed auditorium to their shortened third and fourth period classes.

This year, in order to accommodate Parma's overflowing population, senior homerooms convene in the auditorium.

Mr. Bizic teaches all three classes of Russian at PSH, one of the first schools in the area to offer this course.

For the first few days of September, confusion reigned in the halls of Parma. Changes in the building had taken place during the summer, but eventually both the students and teachers became accustomed to the new ways of Parma. Since PSH was "splitting her seams," speech and journalism classes were moved to former storage rooms backstage. Classes also moved into the Library Instruction room. This year attendance counselors made their headquarters in the main lobby during the first two periods of the day.

The addition of Russian I to the curriculum aroused much community interest. Underclassmen who had excelled in math, biology, history, or English entered honors classes. Three years of Latin or Spanish are now offered at Parma.

New clubs changed the PSH picture too. Members of the Parma Hi Spot and Spectrum joined "Quill and Scroll," an honorary literary society. Mr. Baumgartner's Rifle Club and Miss Larsen's Fencing Club captured the interest and imagination of many Parma students.

Though school life was strange in some aspects in September, by June the changes were accepted.

Lunch period-a welcome break in a busy day

Both students and teachers flock to the cafeteria lunch line, where daily thousands of appetites are satisfied.

Daily at the sound of the lunch bell PSH-ers head for the cafeteria. After fighting through the crowd and battling the lunch line, we are able to purchase a well-balanced meal. Although we have just risked our lives by sitting in a "saved" seat, we continue to eat our lunch in a leisurely fashion. The lunch room rings with the sound of students exchanging the latest bits of gossip and occasionally singing birthday wishes. We practice our sales resistance as the Boosters sell tickets for school functions.

During the free half of our lunch period, some go to the auditorium for noon movies. To others the library offers a chance for some last minute study or reference work. For sports enthusiasts, baseballs and footballs are available. During the winter the noon rec room is open. Here the students may play chess, checkers, ping pong, or dance to their favorite hit records.

Soon the most relaxing period of the day has passed, and once again we are on the go.

College Night finds Nancy Nemeth and her mother conferring with a nurse from the St. Alexis School of Nursing.

Sue Lorenzen observes a Twirp Season custom as she politely relieves Dan Zola and Rich Klym of their books.

College Night and Twirp Season spell "fall"

"Sure, you can carry my books," he said—and handed them to her. Strange? Not in Twirp Season!

The word "Twirp" comes from the initials of "The Woman Is Requested to Pay." In Twirp Week girls show "masculine courtesy" as they open doors for boys, carry their books, and even ask them out. 1958's Twirp Week, November 10-14, was topped off by a Western style dance.

Out-of-the-ordinary sights around PSH this fall weren't confined to Twirp Season. For instance, one October day PSH looked like the set of a Cecil B. DeMille mob scene, including cameramen. KYW-TV was shooting a movie about PSH's overcrowded conditions; later this was shown on TV prior to voting on the high school bond issue.

Another autumn highlight was College Night, November 19. PSH juniors or seniors with questions about their favorite colleges attended that night to have them answered. Alumni and instructors from schools including Ohio State, Carnegie Tech and Harvard were on hand with the answers.

The biology lab serves as location for a KYW cameraman shooting a movie about the crowded conditions at PSH.

PSH-ers double as "beats," attend canteens

Formula for a PSH canteen: the latest music, a well-known disc jockey like Norman Wain, and many happy PSH-ers.

Sunglasses? Indoors? In the middle of winter?

Normally this would be strange—but it wasn't on "beat day" when PSH-ers donned dark glasses and arrayed themselves in black to commemorate San Francisco's "Beat Generation." Jive talk and weird outfits were regulation with PSH "beats."

Not-so-outlandish outfits were featured at other times. The girls combined a flair for fashion with practicality by wearing bulky-knit sweaters, "desert boots," and tights to help ward off cold winter winds. The boys, pleased by the demise of the chemise, were fashion-conscious too: what style-wise guy didn't own a Perry Como sweater?

"School clothes" such as those were also worn outside of school hours—to canteens, for example. These Saturday evening "record hops," emceed by disc jockeys like Bob Ancell, Wes Hopkins, and Johnny Bell, gave PSH-ers a chance to give the cafeteria floor a terrific workout as they rock 'n' rolled, bopped, bunny-hopped, and chalypsoed through another lively evening.

Does he like tights? Nick Pontikos can't decide as he notes them modeled by Karin Roeper and Connie Kulcsar.

Beatnik John McClain greets Rich Amato, another cool character. The scene is Parma High on "beat day."

A victorious football season draws crowds

Football season-1958 brought exciting moments to Redmen fans. Parma captured her first LEL title with an undefeated season. Through rain and shine a confident student body had cheered the team on to victory. Home games drew thousands of fans to Byers Field to view the Redmen in action. As each game approached, tension mounted at school. Before school on Friday, cheers from the cafeteria echoed through still quiet corridors.

Not only home games but also away games were well attended by PSH-ers. For the Shaw game, Parma required fourteen chartered buses to transport the fans to and from the stadium. Cheers and songs during the hour-long trips kept the journeys lively. As the buses returned to the parking lot, cheering fans hit a solemn note as they sang the "Alma Mater." The arrival of the team bus was greeted with shrieks and screams.

Victorious and hungry, all headed for local restaurants where fans rehashed the game and turned their thoughts to the next week's challenge.

The bonfire at the pep rally reflects the excitement of school spirit as Parma rooters hope for a team victory.

Students and alumni see Redmen smash the Marlyn Gelo, Georgia Springer, and Donna Prinz were chosen Homecoming Queen and attendants by students.

Lady Luck was with Parma High on October 10, Homecoming night. Cool autumn weather and a victory for the Redmen added up to a perfect evening. Students and returning alumni cheered when Parma trampled Shaker 36-6. Preceding the game was a parade of floats entered by several school organizations. These clubs had spent long hours in working this year's theme "Parma Then and Now" into their projects. The Girls Boosters took honors in the float contest with their winning entry, "Ice Cream for Parma, Sod-a Alums."

Fans anxiously awaited the half-time which was highlighted by the crowning of Homecoming Queen Marlyn Gelo. Spirits ran high while the crowd watched last year's queen Bonnie Theis place the crown on Parma's 1958 Queen. Marlyn's attendants were Georgia Springer and Donna Prinz.

The Coronation Ball held Saturday night in the cafeteria and the dedication of a school marker donated by the Alumni Association put finishing touches to a memorable Homecoming weekend.

Expressions of the Girls Boosters evidence long, hard nights of tedious work on their winning Homecoming float.

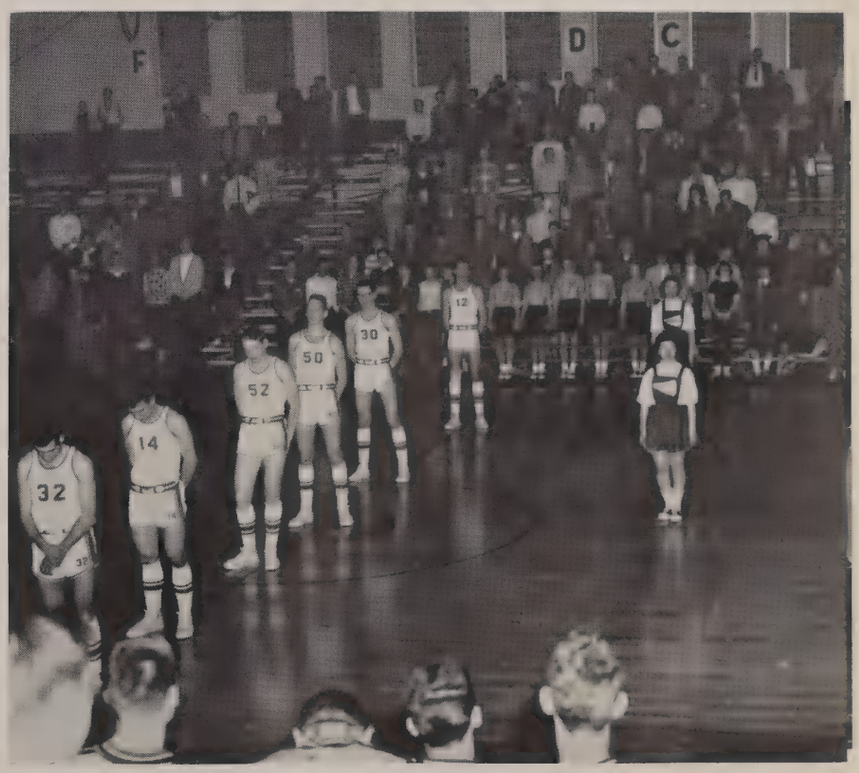
Cries of "Give me a red, give me a red, give me a red, red, red!" sounded through PSH corridors during each home basketball game as cheering PSH-ers supported the team.

Redmen fans poured into the gym on Friday and Saturday nights during basketball season. Loaded down with coats, popcorn, and programs, we were "stamped" at the door by Boosters. Once in the gym we joined our friends and cheered the team through a victory or defeat. At half-time fans paused for refreshment at the concession stand. We returned to the game refueled and ready to yell louder than ever. We spent most of the last quarter on our feet hoping for a win. A last minute basket drew shrieks from the excited crowd.

After the game the crowd headed for the cafeteria to attend a post-game dance. The dances, held after each home game, were sponsored by different school organizations. Here we "strolled" and "chalypsoed" to music played by our student disc jockey. Basketball players received congratulations or words of encouragement from tired dancers. The close of the dance at 11 o'clock ended another fun-filled evening.

At the last home basketball game, students and faculty honor graduating team members and senior cheerleaders.



Bonnie Bauer serves as a target for wet sponges in an All-School Party booth, as Deorma Andrews watches her.

A line-up of boys ready to begin a "hard-way" pie-eating contest . . . the strains of a dance band . . . muffled shrieks from the "spook house" . . . a fast-draw contest a la Dodge City . . .

These were some of the sights and sounds associated with the All-School Parties. Two of these Student Council-sponsored events were held this year, one in January and one in May. The first was given to help raise money for a ward in the new Parma General Hospital, a project shared by the school-wide tax stamp drive. The May edition of the party put the traditional finishing touch to the Parma Senior High social year.

A carnival atmosphere is the trademark of an All-School Party. Some of its favorite features are the Y-Teen spook house, a stunt show in the gym including a trampoline act and a boys' chorus line, and the AVA-sponsored dance in the cafeteria. Among the added attractions were a fortune-telling booth and a squirt-gun shooting gallery; the May party took on a new look when it added outdoor booths. The crowds of PSH-ers that attended these events were proof that these parties had fulfilled their purpose: entertainment!

Prom and dances highlight our social year

Treasure chests and mystic fish turned the cafeteria into an "Underwater Fantasy" on the night of the senior dance.

Girls in light, airy formals or cocktail dresses floated around the dance floor at Parma's dances.

The senior dance, January 24, transformed the school cafeteria into an "Underwater Fantasy." Mystic fish, dim lights, and sunken treasure set the mood as PSH-ers danced to the music of Art Broze and his orchestra. Happy seniors glided under the jeweled netting until the clock struck twelve, when all headed for restaurants or parties. The juniors acted as hosts and hostesses and took over the checkroom and refreshments.

The junior and sophomore class dances furnished "never to be forgotten" memories for those who attended. As underclassmen whirled through the cafeteria, their thoughts of school were left behind for that special evening.

The senior prom, held May 23 at Hotel Cleveland, and the junior prom, the same night at the Masonic Temple, climaxed Parma's social year. Couples danced through the night and attempted to stay awake for picnics the next day.

The prom, held in May at the Hotel Cleveland, leaves PSH-ers with wonderful memories for the years to come.

"Zorro" and his "horse", preceded by John Loizos, join Walt Zaremba's forces in the 1958 edition of the SCM campaign.

Zaremba's election climaxes campaign week

SCM candidates Walt Zaremba and Rich Klym meet during campaign week to discuss their election platforms.

A horse in the cafeteria . . . little green men in the halls . . . Hallucinations? No, just part of the 1958 Student City Manager campaign.

During late May announcements on the Morning Show and gaudy signs on the bulletin boards proclaimed the merits of the candidates, Rich Klym and Walt Zaremba, while PSH-ers carried signs and sported badges to indicate their choice. Determined campaign committee members and enthusiastic partisans of both candidates did their best to make sure that the campaign stayed a very close race; some even dressed up as horses and green men in an attempt to attract undecided voters.

Excitement and suspense mounted steadily in the 1958 version of the annual SCM campaign week. On election day we cast our votes, crossed our fingers, and eagerly waited for the results. We didn't find out who had won until the yearly honors assembly when John Pallam announced the big news to an extremely attentive audience: "Your new Student City Manager is—Walt Zaremba!"

Students honor PSH through their awards

Once again this year, as in the past, students brought honor to themselves and to PSH through awards won in various competitions.

The Sunset Memorial Park Award for excellent vocal work was presented to Darryl Kinion. Each year a sophomore or junior receives the prize. The award brings music lessons at Baldwin-Wallace College to the winner.

Jim Geil, John Lindak, and Tom Wilmer all received first award plaques in biology, chemistry, and physics, respectively, for their work in the second Science Fair at Parma Senior High.

Dick Tecco and Dave Sender won trips to Dearborn, Michigan, for outstanding achievements in the Ford Industrial Arts Program of 1958.

PSH's winners in the essay contest, "Space Age Challenge to America," were Marilyn Schwartz and Beverly Hoffman. Barbara Trapp won the Betty Crocker Homemaker of the Year award.

The Speech Team also brought honor to PSH. Ben Andrews qualified for the national finals at Coral Gables, Florida, by winning first in the state in dramatic declamation. Ralph Jarvis also qualified for the nationals from the NFL district.

Barb Sepic shows Jim Lindow a chicken embryo, part of her project for the Westinghouse Science Talent Search.

Art award winners, Bonnie Bell, Alexis Szabo, Fran Boysko, Cyn Russell, and Rose Benya, admire a drawing.

Judy Link, a Science Fair contestant, demonstrates her prize winning entry as she types Dennis Beckney's blood.

Each year the Science Fair captures the interest and imagination of scientific-minded students. Parma's future biologists, chemists, and physicists entered exhibits in the second annual fair, held Saturday, February 7, in the science wing.

Another PSH contest is the election of Mr. and Miss Parma Senior High, sponsored by the Girls' Board. Leadership, personality, and citizenship are qualities which helped to determine the Top Teens. Each class elects six representatives. Then the entire student body votes and narrows the candidates down to two. Announcement of the winning couple, Georgia Springer and Jim Campi, was made at the Top Teen Assembly.

The addition of a new wing caused much confusion and some inconvenience during the spring months. The building prevented PSH-ers from using the "glass-covered passageway." Instead the students had to re-route themselves through the industrial arts wing. It seemed that school bus stops were found in a different spot each day. We soon became accustomed to the sound of the steam shovel and learned to study despite the noise as the library continued to "grow."

Underclass spirits soared as June and the end of school approached. But to seniors, the change in weather was bringing to a close a chapter in their lives. Underclassmen thought of the coming summer and their return to Parma as upperclassmen next year, while seniors' thoughts centered on their chosen vocations or college.

The year had been a full one. The students had experienced many changes both in themselves and in their environment. PSH-ers took another step in becoming adults. The building too had been altered with the beginning of a new library wing and the greatly increased enrollment.

All too soon, the school year, 1958-59, ended. As Commencement drew near, seniors shed tears while they signed Spectrums and passed out their friendship pictures. They compared memories and made promises of lasting friendships. The beginning and the end seemed to happen simultaneously. The high school door closed and the door of life opened. Commencement passed and graduates took their final walk down PSH corridors. They left to future classes the job and honor of keeping Parma "The Queen of High Schools."

Bill Gambino, Dorothy Maynor, and Sharon Matis review the year as they sign SPECTRUMS at the close of school.

Striving to produce a yearbook requires the assistance of many people. On behalf of the '59 Spectrum, I would like to thank these people: Mrs. Mabel Lewis, her business staff, and her typing students, including Carol Wiencek, Jan Lindsen, Jerry Fabian, Jaye Biasiotta, Anne Marie Kucera, and Sandy Sokolowski; Mr. Bernard Specht and his Stage Crew for their co-operation; Mr. Robert Forsblom; Higbee's Chesshire Studio; Mr. Roy Seitz of the Cleveland Engraving Company; Mr. Elmer Schuttenberg of Electric Printing; and Mr. Ralph Benz of S. K. Smith Cover Company. Many thanks also go to Miss Emily Wilson for her many hours of help and assistance. And my sincere gratitude goes to the wonderful editorial staff who worked so hard to make the 1959 Spectrum the very best yearbook ever!

1959 SPECTRUM

Doug.

To my best friend and taxi service. We should be able to kick up a storm this summer. With my looks and your car we'll go places. I am also a liar. You've been swell and can really play the roll.

I HOPE MARIE NEVER FINDS OUT ABOUT THOSE PICTURES. (CHUCKLE)

Larry

Doug,

Good Luck in all your future years. Always keep your nice red smile. What pictures ~~are~~ is Larry talking about? Hope to see more of you next year. Always

"Be Good"

Ann

Doug,
To a real sharp
tennis player and wonderful
guy. Never lose your nice personality. Best of luck in your future years. Never forget our Spanish class. To bad you are not taking 3rd yr. Spanish with Sandy, Marianne and I. I really feel sorry for you (ha+ha)
Donna

Doug,
To a real nice Kid with a swell personality.
always remember the fun we had in 8th Period English.
Good Luck
always Carol

Dear Doug:
I'll never forget the really terrific time we all had at the picnic, and I don't think I can forget your canary because it almost drove us crazy (I should complain it was probably 10 times worse in your car. Do a really swell guy I wish the best of everything in this big
"Harry" world. You deserve it.
Lots of luck in learning to speak Spanish. May God
Bless you & keep you,
Joyce
